The Women's Studies Program is a flexible interdisciplinary academic program devoted to the critical analysis of gender and the pursuit of knowledge about women. Combining the methods and insights of Women's Studies Scholarship, our courses yield fresh perspectives, which illuminate the origins of and changes in diverse cultural and social arrangements. The Women's Studies major is broad as well as flexible, and each student's plan of study can readily reflect individual interests as well as compliment a second major.

Gender is a common thread throughout our course of study, but it always interweaves race, class, and other factors that contribute to the diversity of women's lives. The Women's Studies Program is committed to a vision of women and gender that is truly international and cross-cultural. Without this perspective our view of the world is profoundly impoverished and stereotypes will continue to distort our understanding.

These courses prepare students to employ critical learning in their private lives as well as citizens and members of our complex work force, and it enhances their ability to work with and for women to create a more humane society. Women's Studies fosters interdisciplinary breadth and critical thinking, thus opening up the way to a wide variety of career choices and graduate programs. Women's Studies students are flourishing in social service agencies, the arts, business, law, education, and journalism. Many employers appreciate the broad perspective of a Women's Studies education.
