Information Session

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 2007
UConn Women’s Center
4th Floor Student Union
2:30-5:30 pm

- Hear What This Program Has to Offer You
- Meet Faculty and Staff
- Learn About the WS Major or Minor

Women's Studies is an interdisciplinary program that offers one of the liveliest intellectual communities at UConn. As a major WS can stand on its own or become an ideal double major that complements many other programs. Anyone interested in the critical analysis of gender and the pursuit of knowledge about women should consider learning more about becoming a WS major or minor.

- Meet Potential Supervisors
- Ask Questions of Former Interns
- Learn about the Women's Studies Internship Program

Our internship program is open to junior and senior students from any major. The WS Internship and concurrent Seminar promotes integrating academic knowledge with professional experience. Through their field placements students are able to gain valuable professional experience, expand their resumes, clarify their career goals, and make contacts with potential employers. We have invited former interns and field supervisors to be available to discuss the many benefits this program may offer interested students.

Refreshments will be served
