

The Women's Studies Program

Women's Studies is an innovative interdisciplinary academic program devoted to the critical analysis of gender and the pursuit of knowledge about women. Combining methods and insights of traditional academic disciplines with the special insights of feminist scholarship, our courses yield fresh perspectives that illuminate the origins of, and changes in, diverse cultural and social arrangements.

During the past quarter century, scholarship on women, gender, and feminism has been increasingly influential in reshaping the academic world. Women's Studies scholars have opened up the canon in almost every field to new works, subjects, and approaches that have stretched the boundaries of academic inquiry. At the same time, Women's Studies has punctured the pretensions of objectivity by demonstrating the role of gender--as well as class and race--in shaping ideas and social practices. Women's Studies has brought fresh insights with new empirical data and theoretical perspectives to virtually every discipline.

Gender is a common thread in all our course offerings, but it always interweaves race, class, and other factors that contribute to the diversity of women's lives. The Program prepares students to utilize critical learning in their private lives as well in their public roles as citizens thus opening the way to a wide variety of professional careers.

Because an increasing number of academic positions seek applicants with expertise in the study of women and gender, the addition of Women's Studies courses can be a powerful addition to your graduate education.

Women's Studies Graduate Certificate Program

In virtually every field of university study, scholarship on women and gender has become increasingly influential because of its path-breaking theoretical perspectives and empirical findings. The programs of virtually every professional association testify to the vitality and presence of feminist research.

The Women's Studies Graduate Certificate can be earned by students enrolled in a Graduate Degree Program, or as a stand-alone certificate for those who have completed their undergraduate degree.

Although feminist scholarship may be available in other disciplines, Women's Studies offers a concentrated perspective and in-depth analysis. The graduate certificate enables students to pursue interdisciplinary study in this flourishing field while enhancing their educational background by encouraging the integration of personal, academic and political experiences and ideals.

Because the program is interdisciplinary and students will approach the certificate from a range of home fields and with widely varying preparation, all certificate plans of study will be individualized. Each certificate candidate combines the study of Women's Studies theory and methodology, either through current study or prior preparation. The core faculty of the Women's Studies Program will act as advisors to certificate students; careful advising will ensure that each student's program has the appropriate interdisciplinary breadth and fits appropriately with her/his other course work and professional needs.

All WS certificate plans of study must include work in more than one department and must be approved by the Program Director or her designee, who will coordinate the certificate program.

PLEASE NOTE: the dual course numbers listed in this brochure fall into two categories - the 3-digit course numbers apply to classes prior to Fall 2008; 4-digit course numbers apply to classes Fall 2008 onward. The class content remains the same regardless of the number.
